Global Development. Fighting the Cold War in the Countryside?

Lecture

Prof. Dr. Sara Lorenzini
(Università di Trento)

Livestream

Thursday

24.3.2022, 18.00–19.30

For registration please send an e-mail before 23 March 2022 to info-event@dhi-roma.it.

The talk revisits the importance of rural development as a strategy for the Global Cold War on both sides of the East-West divide. It discusses the different trajectories followed by donors and recipients and the growing concern with the environmental impact of rural development schemes.

Sara Lorenzini is a Full Professor of Contemporary History at the University of Trento (Italy). Among her books: Una strana guerra fredda (Bologna, Il mulino 2017), Global Development: A Cold War History (Princeton University Press, series "America in the World", 2019) and, recently, The Human Rights Breakthrough of the 1970s. The European Community and International Relations, eds. Lorenzini, Tulli, and Zamburlini (London, Bloomsbury, 2022).
