FOREIGNERS AND INSTITUTIONS:
VISIBLE IDENTITIES BETWEEN THYRRENHIAN AND THAMES

London and Livorno: History Hound of the Harbours. Presentation of the video-documentary of FIVIBET project

27th of November 2026 - 18.00-20.00
Deutsches Historisches Institut in Rom (DHI)
Via Aurelia Antica, 391 - Rome

Speakers: Filomena Viviana Tagliaferri (DHI Rome & Kellogg College, University of Oxford) and Ana Shorter (Producer)

How did foreigners live in early modern port cities, and how did states manage them between the Mediterranean and Northern Europe? The video-documentary London and Livorno: History Hound of the Harbours, produced within the MSCA-PNRR project FIVIBET (Foreigners and Institutions: Visible Identities BEtween Tyrrhenian and Thames), explores the connections between the visibility of foreigners in Livorno and London in the late 17th and early 18th centuries. A spin-off of the MSCA Global MedRoute project, it follows case studies across both cities and traces the historian's detective work from the docks to the archives.

The screening will be introduced by FIVIBET principal investigator Dr Viviana Tagliaferri and director-producer Ana Shorter.

Registration is mandatory for both in-person and online attendance:
